BROWN RUDNICK PARTNER DANIEL B. ABRAHAMS SET TO TEACH 2010 A-76 INSTITUTE COURSES ON SERVICE CONTRACT ACT AND DAVIS BACON ACT

Boston, MA, February 10, 2010 – For the second consecutive year, Daniel B. Abrahams, a partner in the Brown Rudnick's Government Contracts and Wage and Hour Group in Washington, DC, will be a member of the A-76 Institute, LLC teaching faculty. Mr. Abrahams will participate in the Institute's public training courses on the Service Contract Act and the Davis-Bacon Act.

Mr. Abrahams is considered a leading expert in the practical workings of the Service Contract Act and the Davis-Bacon Act. Mr. Abrahams' practice spans the Fair Labor Standards Act, state wage laws as well as the Service Contract Act and Davis-Bacon Act. He was actively involved in the design and preparation of the manuals for both courses and has been a long-time lecturer for the A-76 Institute. Other course faculty members include Professor Gilbert J. Ginsburg and Mr. William Gross.

Construction opportunities through the federal stimulus package and BRAC have generated a heightened need for organizations contracting with the US government to understand the applicability of the Service Contract Act and Davis-Bacon Act. Additionally, both laws have been subject to renewed enforcement vigor, making the A-76 Institute program a much needed curriculum for any organization doing business with the federal government. The schedule for 2010 is as follows:

DAVIS-BACON ACT Course

March 25, 2010 – Washington, D.C.

April 22, 2010 – Las Vegas, NV

Press Release

June 24, 2010 – Washington, D.C.
October 7, 2010 – Las Vegas, NV
December 2, 2010 – Washington, D.C.

SERVICE CONTRACT ACT Course

March 23-24, 2010 – Washington, D.C.
April 20 -21, 2010 – Las Vegas, NV
June 22-23, 2010 – Washington, D.C.
October 5-6, 2010 – Las Vegas, NV
November 30 – December 1, 2010 – Washington, D.C.

Further details on the programs can be obtained by calling David Kline, the A-76 Institute, LLC at (202) 776-7776 or by reviewing its website at www.a76institute.com. On site training is also available and the courses presented are listed on the GSA Advantage Schedule.
